Daemon Legions

The Daemon Legions are not of this world. Servants of the gods of Hell, daemons are beings from beyond the Veil that separates the Mortal and Immortal Realms. And yet in dire moments, they can cross this barrier, crafting myriad nightmarish bodies for themselves, to make war upon the peoples of the world. This is a truly fearsome and unnatural force, provoking madness merely from beholding it, seeking to tear down civilisation at its roots.

Across the world, wherever their cultists work in secret, daemons can be summoned and manifest in the Mortal Realm to carry out their unknowable purposes.

In areas of high magic, daemons can cross the Veil unaided, and whole armies may emerge from these places to ravage nearby lands.

The Immortal Realm

A plane of pure magic and ceaseless change, the Immortal Realm is inimical to beings of flesh and blood. Its denizens are supernals: undying magical beings who can take whatever forms they desire. Within this Realm lies the Abyss, called Hell by many. It is a grim and terrible region, ruled by the seven Dark Gods and their servants: supernals known as daemons. In the Immortal Realm, those with stronger will are more powerful, imposing their natures and their intentions on weaker supernals. Lesser daemons are often compared to streams swept up into the raging rivers of greater daemons, who are in turn swallowed by the ocean of the gods. In this way, the free will of less potent daemons is subservient to those who dominate them, and their appearance and behaviour can come to reflect that of their superiors.

The Seven

Kuulima, Goddess of Envy; Akaan, God of Gluttony; Sugulag, God of Greed; Cibaresh, God of Lust; Savar, God of Pride; Nukuja, Goddess of Sloth; Vanadra, Goddess of Wrath. The nature of each Dark God is rooted in one of the great sins of mortals, and their daemon armies likewise adopt their god's flavour. Ultimately, these creatures and their masters strive always for discord and disorder, seeking to undermine and destabilise the Mortal Realm – but each may take a very different approach, or become distracted by short-term ambitions. The eighth point in the Dark Star is that of Father Chaos, the primordial titan said to represent the Abyss itself. Whether or not He is a real creature or simply an idea, the Dark Gods see themselves as His lieutenants, and some rare daemons have been known to pledge themselves to Him directly.

Manifestation and Possession

Daemons require a great store of magic to corporealise in the Mortal Realm, using it to forge frightening, freakish bodies out of raw materials in their surroundings. But only a very few places in the world are sufficiently magical to allow daemons to cross the Veil this way as they please. Everywhere else, such a crossing must be facilitated by an unholy summoning ritual, requiring a sacrifice to create a conduit for the daemon to manifest. Daemonic bodies can take unlimited forms, expressing the full horror of each daemon's self-image. Some mimic twisted versions of mortal creatures, others are much more unnatural. No two daemons are exactly alike, so that their assembled throngs appear as kaleidoscopic seas of writhing, gibbering monsters. Yet each daemon requires magic as sustenance, and when it is exhausted, they are forced to return to the Immortal Realm. Daemons can also possess mortal hosts – both sentient beings and inanimate objects. This method is easier in many ways, requiring much less magic to sustain, though it results in a more limiting form.

Cultists

The Daemon Legions are aided by mortal agents devoted to the Dark Gods. These fanatics associate in secret, shadowy cults, for they are persecuted by almost all governments and religions. Hoping to find favour with their dark masters, such cultists often attempt to facilitate daemonic incursions, and have even been known to support them in battle.

Army Specific Rules

Aegis

Unit profiles in this Army Book contain an additional Characteristic: 'Aegis (Aeg)'.

This gives units the rule Aegis (X), where 'X' is the 'Aeg' value.

Remember that the lack of an Aeg value does not prevent a unit from being affected by Aegis modifiers.

Immortal Denizens

Casting Rolls for Learned Spells made by a model with Daemon in this army using two or three Magic Dice gain a +1 modifier.

In games involving one or more Daemon Legions armies, the Active Player gains one additional Magic Dice during their Magic Phase's 'Siphon the Veil' step (i.e. both players gain one additional Magic Dice in their Player Turn).

The Immortal Realm is entirely composed of magic, and those who dwell there can manipulate it with much less effort than most mortals, making them particularly powerful mages. While manifested in the Mortal Realm, daemons instinctively draw magic towards themselves for both protection and sustenance, warding their bodies while inadvertently providing additional resources for any wizards nearby.

Army Model Rules

Attack Attributes

Smother (X) – Melee

Melee Attacks towards a model with Height X gain +1 to hit and +1 to wound.

Weapons

Dark Fire – Shooting Weapon

Name	Aim	Range	Shots	Str	AP	Attack Attributes
Dark Fire	X+	18"	2	4	0	Armour Save rolls of '1', '2', '3', and '4' are always failed when saving wounds caused by Dark Fire , Magical Attacks

Daemonic Manifestations

Daemonic Manifestations are Magic Items with the following exceptions:

- They do not belong to any category.
- They are not Legendary.
- Models cannot be affected by more than one instance of each Daemonic Manifestation.
- Unless specifically noted otherwise, the rules listed in each Daemonic Manifestation, including Characteristics modifiers and Attack Attributes, are applied to the entire model, including model parts with Mount.
- A model can only have a single Daemonic Manifestation with Dominant.

Guiding Manifestations

Daemonic Manifestations that have options for ‘Guiding Manifestations’ have two point costs: the “Guided version”’s point cost and rules are written with (this colour-coding and notation).

Guiding versions must be noted on your Army List.

Guiding Manifestations affect both the bearer and all Rank-and-File models in the bearer’s unit, as if the models themselves had the Daemonic Manifestation.

Note that Guiding and non-Guiding Manifestations are considered to be the same Daemonic Manifestation.

∞ Manifestations of Father Chaos

- Incendiary Ichor 10 <25> pts
<Dominant>.
Aegis (3+, against Flaming Attacks) and Flaming Attacks (Melee & Shooting).
The model automatically fails all Regeneration Saves.

Hereditary Spell

Daemons have access to the raw power of the Immortal Realm, allowing them to unleash tremendous energies in wild arcs that rip souls and matter alike. These assaults only get stronger in proximity to other daemonic spellcasting, enhancing these creatures' connection to their native plane.

Hereditary Spell

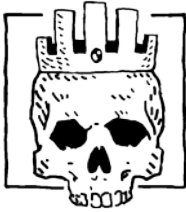

Spear of Infinity

CV	Type	Duration
6+	Damage Hex Missile Range 24" Replicable	Instant

Effect

The target suffers one hit with Str 2, AP 2, Area Attack (1×5), Direct Hit (Str 4, AP 3, Multiple Wounds (2)), and Magical Attacks. The hits from Spear of Infinity gain +1 Str for each spell successfully cast before this spell during the current Magic Phase (including other instances of Spear of Infinity).

Characters (Max. 40 %)

Certain daemons serve the highest principle of entropy: the infinite being some call Father Chaos. Solitary and mysterious, they're formidable warriors and potent mages, taking an array of forms across the daemonic spectrum and often electing to master lesser daemons as mounts. Most prominently display the Father's sigil, acting as a guiding beacon for their kin.

Model Rules

Devour: For each Health Point loss the model causes with Melee Attacks, roll a D6 at the end of the Agility Step.

For each 4+ rolled, the model gains +1 Health Point.

If the model's Health Points reach 20 or more, all units within 9" immediately suffer 2D6 hits with Toxic Attacks, and the model is removed as a casualty.

Path of Destruction: The model part can allocate its Stomp Attack onto Health Pools of Height 4 or less (rather than 0-1).

If the model part's Stomp Attack is allocated towards a Health Pool with Height (3-4), the total number of its hits is halved, rounding fractions up.

Daemons are the ultimate evangelists of the Dark Gods; even as they attempt to tear down the world, they also seek converts to their scandalous faith. Imps are a particularly broad category of daemon that spans tiny homunculi all the way to man-sized elementals. Most often, they are brightly coloured, goblin-like creatures firing deadly pyroclastic bolts from limbs or orifices, driven by their love of arson.
