Vermin Swarm

Rodents the size of humans, breeding in uncountable numbers beneath the earth, obsessed with a lost legacy of empire, the Vermin Swarm is a nightmarish vision in the minds of other species. Once rulers of a vast empire, subjugating many other peoples, the Vermin were finally cast down in a terrible war that ushered in the Ninth Age; today they hide themselves from the sight of others and plot their long-awaited vengeance. With new technologies, war-bred monsters, and endless new recruits to aid them, Vermin armies are already a grave threat of which few in the surface world are fully aware.

The vermin were born in Avras, and for long centuries they controlled an empire centered on this great city. Now they live mostly below the ground, often under the ruins of old Avrasi cities. But they still cling to a semblance of an empire that branches out from their capital beneath "Vrotmog" (as they now call the city), each colony feeling less of the Senate's power the further away it is.

Heirs of Avras

Avras, today the largest and most famous city in the world, was once the centre of a mighty human empire in ancient times, known for its peerless legions led by eagle standards proclaiming the might of the Senate and the People. Yet in a shocking calamity known as the Arrival, born of an unholy spell fuelled by divine power, the Vermin species emerged right in the heart of Avras, and swiftly devoured the Empire from within. The newborn Vermin saw themselves as the rightful heirs of the empire they had supplanted, and immediately began to mimic the styles, culture, religion and military strategies of the Avrasi. But the rodents failed to understand much of what they copied, resulting in a distorted, twisted version of that which they tried to become. Even the language gradually devolved, with High Avrasi only used by the most educated Vermin today.

Life in the Dark

For many centuries, the Vermin ruled supreme in much of Vetia, but eventually they succumbed to famine, civil war and repeated attacks, ending with the “liberation” of Avras by human armies led by the heroine Sunna, who perished in the act after taking a wound from the legendary Vermin-forged Doom Blade. The victorious humans attempted to exterminate the Vermin, and thought they had succeeded. But many rats survived by hiding in the deepest underground warrens, where they slowly regathered their strength. Today, human Avras sits atop a vast subterranean reflection of itself, where the Vermin have attempted to replicate the entire city. Now calling itself a republic, Vermin Avras also controls (to greater or lesser extents) many colonies from its former empire and beyond.

Politics and Houses

The Avrasi Republic is led by a senate and four elected consuls, together with various tribunes, praetors and so forth. While these politicians are invariably corrupt, they must be careful to appease the teeming mob of Vermin plebs with sufficient food and entertainment to prevent them from rioting. Most Avrasi Vermin belong to a broad family or clan known as a jent, attend often violent meetings in support of various political factions, and pray at temples controlled by priests who can also wield political influence. To find a little extra security, patronage and education in such a chaotic world, many rats also join one of the great houses: the machinists and weaponsmiths of House Rakachit, the thieves and smugglers of House Sicarra, the alchemists and sorcerers of House Skorchit, the beastmasters and slavers of House Fetthis, or the mysterious deep miners of House Stygia, to name the most famous.

Religion

Since they first arrived, Vermin have worshipped the Caelysian gods of old Avras, hoping to find the same favour as their human predecessors – though the pantheon may have evolved as certain gods rejected or embraced their new faithful. The goddess Melkiope, once a minor muse of tragedy, is credited with initiating the spell that brought the Vermin into existence, and so has found a special place at the top of the pantheon. Other important deities include Favana, Goddess of the Underworld, Acratos, God of War, Vestaleia, Goddess of Hearth and Home, Tarina, Goddess of Hunting, Ateus, God of the Forge, and Udius, God of Feasting and Chaos. In recent years, a new religion has emerged in the east to challenge the old: the Cult of Errahman, God of Plague. Led by inspirational prophets and fuelled by tales of martyrdom, the Cult’s disciples offer dispossessed Vermin new hope in the “purity” of plague, baptising their flocks with sickness to determine who is worthy to survive. Long persecuted by Avrasi leaders, the Cult is finally finding support from certain senators who hope to profit from its growing popularity. Errahmite fanatics have even been permitted to support Avrasi legions in battle against common enemies.

Technology

Vermin inventors take a somewhat scattershot approach that has resulted in many spectacular failures. Yet the constant tinkering and creative madness has also produced machines and weaponry of brutal effectiveness, if they can be kept from exploding. Perhaps the greatest success is that of darkstone, a mineral that Vermin are able to enchant in such a way that it can store lightning, with many potential uses. Meanwhile, the fleshmasters of House Fetthis have also achieved much success breeding certain brutish creatures with rodents to produce hulking beasts to entertain arena crowds. The utility of these monstrosities in battle has not gone unnoticed by Vermin leadership.

Army Specific Rules

Tunnel Digger

Each Vermin Swarm army gains one Tunnel Marker, and an additional Tunnel Marker for each unit on the Army List with Tunnel Digger.

During Pre-game Selections, for each of your army's Tunnel Markers, mark a Terrain Feature with a Tunnel Marker. Only Terrain Features that are not in contact with the opponent's Deployment Zone can be marked. Note: Impassable Terrain can be chosen.

Having dwelt almost exclusively underground for centuries, the Vermin are expert diggers, often able to tunnel under a battlefield in advance or even during an engagement. This sometimes allows them to emerge in the midst of battle, to the enemy's great surprise.

Army Model Rules

Callous

The model may use Shooting Attacks towards enemy units Engaged in Combat, with the following rules and restrictions:

- Friendly units Engaged in this Combat are ignored for Cover purposes (but not for drawing Line of Sight).
- Roll to-hit as normal against the intended target. Immediately after determining the number of hits, roll a D6 for each hit. On a roll of 4+, the hit is distributed onto a randomly chosen friendly unit Engaged with the original target. Otherwise, proceed as normal.

Drill Down!

One use only.

Start of 'Vanguard Units' (Battle Setup, 3.F), a unit containing Drill Down! may choose to be removed from the Battlefield. If so, the unit gains Ambush (Terrain Feature with a friendly Tunnel Marker).

Life is Cheap

When calculating Combat Score, ignore the first two Health Point losses of Health Pools with Life is Cheap in each Round of Combat.

Note: the number of ignored Health Point losses is not affected by the amount of Health Pools.

Units containing Life is Cheap that are both Steady and Solid get +2 Discipline when taking Break Tests.

Attack Attributes

Cohort Coordination – Melee

While the unit has a Standard Bearer and the General is on the Battlefield, it:

- Gains Fight in Extra Rank.
- May reroll a failed Command Test. If it chooses to do this, and still fails the test, the unit loses Standard Bearer, and you must remove one Rank-and-File model from the unit as a casualty (no saves allowed).

Maniacal Enthusiasm (X) – Attack Attribute – Shooting

When models in a unit make a dice roll of the type defined in brackets ('X'), after seeing the result(s) of all simultaneous rolls for 'X', and rolling eventual re-rolls, it may add 2 to 'X' for all simultaneous rolls with this attribute.

If this modifier is used, immediately roll a D6 and consult the table below:

- 1-2 Oops: Change the target of all simultaneous Attacks or a spell with Maniacal Enthusiasm to a friendly unit within range chosen by the controlling player (the model's own unit is always an eligible target).

- 3–4 Room for Improvement: After fully resolving the simultaneous attacks or a spell that triggered the roll on this table, the model's unit suffers 3 hits with Str 4, AP 10 and Unmodifiable.
- 5–6 Glorious Success!: No additional effect.

Weapons

Bloodpox Blades – Melee Weapon

Paired Weapons. Poison Attacks.

Canister Launcher – Shooting Weapon

Rarity: Rare.

Only one model per unit may use a Canister Launcher in any one Shooting Phase.

Increase the Aim of the Canister Launcher by 1 for each other model in the unit armed with a Canister Launcher.

Name	Aim	Range	Shots	Str	AP	Attack Attributes
Canister Launcher	X+	18"	1	3	10	Area Attack (3×3), Artillery, Maniacal Enthusiasm (To-hit roll), Quick to Fire, Toxic Attacks

Deepfire Thrower – Shooting Weapon

Rarity: Rare.

The model gains Weakness (Flaming Attacks).

Only one model per unit may use a Deepfire Thrower in any one Shooting Phase.

Increase the Aim of the Deepfire Thrower by 1 for each other model in the unit armed with a Deepfire Thrower.

Name	Aim	Range	Shots	Str	AP	Attack Attributes
Deepfire Thrower	X+	18"	1	4	1	Accurate, Area Attack (3×5), Artillery, Flaming Attacks, Maniacal Enthusiasm (To-hit roll), Quick to Fire

Jezail – Shooting Weapon

Name	Aim	Range	Shots	Str	AP	Attack Attributes
Jezail	X+	36"	1	5	3	Accurate, Maniacal Enthusiasm (To-hit roll), Unwieldy (1)

Rotary Gun – Shooting Weapon

Name	Aim	Range	Shots	Str	AP	Attack Attributes
Rotary Gun	X+	18"	D6	4	2	Maniacal Enthusiasm (To-hit roll), Quick to Fire

Hereditary Spell

Proud Iovanis, master of sky and the four winds, the lord of thunder and the soaring eagle. He longs for a forgotten age of Avrasi heroes, and scorns the prayers of we lowly vermin even as he protects us from above. Only the mighty, the brave and the bold are worthy in his sight. He smites those who incur his wrath with holy lightning. His priesthood oversees the proper rituals for the Senate and the offices of the Republic.

Hereditary Spell

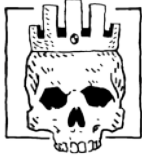

Iovanis' Thunder

CV	Type	Duration
7+	Hex Range 24"	Instant

Effect

The target suffers 2D3 hits with Str 4, AP 1, Lightning Attacks, Magical Attacks, and Maniacal Enthusiasm (To-wound roll).

Small Arms Fire

10 per 1000 Army Points (rounding fractions up)

Model parts armed with the following weapons contribute to this limit:

- Sling, at a ratio of 2:1 (two model parts with the weapon or rule count once towards this limit), rounding fractions up.
- Pistol, Deepfire Grenades, Throwing Weapons, at a ratio of 1:1.

For example, at 4000 Army Points the Army List is restricted to 40 model parts with the weapons listed above. If a single model part would be counted to more than one ratio, only use the highest.

Tunnel Gunners

1 per 250 Army Points (rounding fractions up)

Model parts armed with the following weapons contribute to this limit:

- Jezail, Rotary Gun, Canister Launcher, Deepfire Thrower, at a ratio of 1:1.
- Darkstone Generator, Rakachit Mauss Rifle, Skorshit Ordnance, at a ratio of 1:3 (one model part with the weapon or rule counts three times towards the limit).
- Imperator, at a ratio of 1:7 (one model part with the weapon or rule counts seven times towards the limit).

For example, at 4000 Army Points the Army List is restricted to 16 model parts with the weapons listed above. If a single model part would be counted to more than one ratio, only use the highest.

Through arcane rituals, an ambitious Vermin can bond itself with a Caelysian supernal, becoming a monster of terrible physical and magical power. Such a union is a highly hazardous undertaking, and one which cannot be undone. The beast is obsessed with power, appointing itself dictator (a temporary rank in ancient times) and ruling the Swarm as a despised tyrant.

While the Senate's power has fluctuated over the centuries, the rank has always been prestigious and coveted by the entire political class. Seeking ever more wealth and influence, many senators sponsor legions and attend battles in person to win both popular support and military control. Rarely skilled fighters, they can nevertheless sway a battle with their authority and stirring orations.

The Great Houses of Avras frequently send their officials to accompany legions, primarily to gain intelligence and influence. These functionaries are often highly skilled in a singular field, and come armed with their House's best weapons. They're sometimes able to support a Vermin army with their expertise in quite dramatic fashion.

In addition, each Stygian Overseer on the Army List increases the duplication limit of Legionary Drill Teams by 1.

The Vermin have long relied upon religion to manage and direct the mob. Vermin priests have not only amassed considerable political sway, but have also succeeded in monopolising magical training. Regardless of the gods they follow, these figures are often willing to lend their wisdom and spellcraft in support of the legions to prove their commitment to Avras and attract new worshippers.

Vermin politics is monitored by a shadowy, much-feared cabal of assassins informally known as the Dusk Senate. Its members seek to prevent the rise of a single king or tyrant through judicious use of their skills, though their motives are inscrutable and rarely pure. When their objectives require them to go to battle, they're a secret and deadly weapon.

High-ranking Vermin officials can be assigned a brute bodyguard by Avras' elite praetorian guard. Normally reserved for watching the doors to the Senate Hall or the treasury vaults, these valuable, semi-intelligent protectors are fiercely loyal to their master. In battle, they accompany their charge or allow them to ride into the fray upon their back.

Commanders who achieve great success on military campaigns are, by long tradition, welcomed back to Avras with a triumph: a parade in their honour. The moving platforms from these events – often featuring ancient masonry – have been used in battle as well. Not only do they glorify the rider, but their momentum and savage pulling beasts make them potent chariots of war.

The term for the javelin-wielding skirmishers of the ancients has been somewhat misappropriated by the Vermin. These detachments are equipped with knives and simple ranged weapons, used to harry enemies and draw their formations out of position.

The backbone of Vermin armies is composed of simple “legionary” soldiers, normally plebeian conscripts enticed by the prospect of regular food and pay. Given basic training and weapons, they’re so numerous and easily recruited that few commanders give much thought to high casualty rates.

Better trained and granted stronger armour, rats who show an aptitude for fighting form their own detachments that drill with more advanced formations. Slavery is much more prevalent among Vermin than it was for human Avras; uncountable throngs of dispossessed rats are available for drafting into any army, promised freedom if they survive. An ocean of flesh, their lives freely traded for any small advantage, they're completely untrained and undisciplined, but they can overwhelm with numbers or support manual labour underground.

While the Vermin species is intelligent, bipedal, and almost human-sized, it still shares a kinship with its evolutionary originators, the common four-legged rats found all across the world. Though comparatively tiny, these ordinary rodents are frightening to most, and in horrific roiling swarms of teeth and tails, trained to obey Vermin signals, they can overwhelm any opponent.
